

Lindsay K. Smith-Yancey

Lindsay focuses her practice in the areas of medical malpractice, insurance law and litigation, workers' compensation, commercial and personal injury litigation, and trial and appellate law. Lindsay, a Columbia, S.C., native, lives with her husband, Bart, in Charleston.

Areas of Practice

Professional malpractice litigation (medical)
Health care law
Insurance law and litigation
Worker's compensation
Motor carrier defense
Commercial litigation
Personal injury/wrongful death litigation
Trial and appellate law

Admitted to Practice

South Carolina
North Carolina
United States District Court for the District of South Carolina
United States District Court for the Middle and Western Districts of North Carolina

Professional Memberships and Distinctions

Charleston County Bar Association, Young Lawyers Division
South Carolina Defense Trial Attorneys Association

Community Involvement

American Red Cross National Marrow Program, volunteer
Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, volunteer
Ronald McDonald House, board member

Representative Cases

Concerned Dunes West Residents, Inc. v. Georgia-Pacific Corp., et al., 562 S.E.2d 633, 349 S.C. 251 (obtained favorable ruling from S.C. Supreme Court defining the responsibility of a developer for the condition of property conveyed to a property owners' association)

Education

University of South Carolina, B.A. in History and International Studies, 1989
University of South Carolina School of Law, J.D., 1995